

Conclusion/Summary:

Some laboratory reports will require a conclusion or a summary. As its name suggests, this section provides a recap to the reader and is in some ways analogous to the introduction section. This section should not be longer than a few sentences and should reiterate the findings of your experiment.